Purpose:

This award will support a worthy student pursuing a career in Occupational Health and Safety through post-secondary studies and a commitment to making workplaces physically and psychologically healthy and safe environments for workers and the communities where they operate.

The Manufacturing Safety Alliance of BC is a leading provider of health and safety services in BC. An industry-funded organization with a board of directors elected from BC manufacturing industries, the Alliance is dedicated to ensuring Occupational Health and Safety professionals of the future are well qualified to provide industry advice and leadership.

This scholarship supports the Vision 2020 of the Manufacturing Safety Alliance: Partnering with BC's industry leaders to achieve cultural change that ensures safe workplaces for all employees.

Award Details:

The annual scholarship of $2,500 is offered by the Manufacturing Safety Alliance of BC. The award also includes a secondary practicum opportunity following successful completion of an accredited OHS degree, diploma, or certificate program with a minimum GPA of 3.5.

Qualifications

Applications will be accepted from students enrolling in an accredited Occupational Health and Safety program at college or university in BC (BCIT, UBC, SFU, UVIC, UNBC, or Okanagan College) for the 2019 – 2020 year.

Applicants will be accepted from high school graduates and those furthering their education in health and safety graduate studies as outlined in the list of qualified programs.

Applicants will submit abstracts showing their academic result.

Applicants will submit an essay of 750 to 1,200 words explaining why workplace health and safety is important to them, and why they are pursuing this course of study.

Applicants will be Canadian citizens or permanent residents residing in the province of BC.

Deadline for applications will be March 15, 2019.
