

YELL is a course for students interested in business, entrepreneurship, and innovation, or those just interested in learning more about how the world works and how to put their ideas into action.

This course is delivered in partnership with YELL Canada, a charity that partners with schools to enhance classroom learning and to open doors and to create opportunities traditionally not available to youth. In the course you will hear from over a dozen guest speakers and leaders from the local community, featuring Q&A opportunities to ask the questions you want answered. Teams of students will be matched with a mentor to guide them through the process of coming up with an innovative and world-changing business concept, and you will compete with students across the province in a venture competition hosted by YELL.

This course is based on top-quality university entrepreneurship programs as well as best practices from Silicon Valley. You will learn how to develop and evaluate a business, build a personal network of business contacts, hone your creative and critical thinking, apply teamwork skills, and put your presentation skills to the test. The applied experience you gain through the project in this course will be extremely valuable for you as you apply to university and seek out a job. Even if you do not plan to study business, learning how to think creatively and innovatively within the context of a business are skills that employers and universities are looking for.

84% of students who have taken YELL say they made one or more connections with a mentor or leader that they plan to continue to stay in touch with and 81% say they are more confident in finding or creating a career that aligns with their purpose and passion.
